About Me

What the above information does NOT tell you is what type of person I am. Well, in this short paragraph I will try to give you an idea of that.

My interests are far-reaching and in most cases will reach common ground when interacting with people. I have a great appetite for travel and in my short life I have been privileged enough to see 6 of the 7 continents (I'll get to Antarctica someday).

I always enjoy trying new things and I have a great thirst for knowledge. When given any task, I will deliver; but it is when I am given something challenging that I am at my best.
